IN THE BEGINNING

Aaron and Martha (Eggleston) Barnes' son Thomas was born in Sharon, Litchfield County, Connecticut May 28, 1802 and died December 11, 1866 in Jackson, Jackson County, Michigan. Thomas married about 1822 to Sarah Sittser/Sittsen, who was born in Berne, Albany County, New York May 19, 1800² and died November 30, 1875.³ Sarah was the only daughter in a family with six sons, all children of David and Sarah (Mills) Sittser of Sennett, Cayuga County, New York. Sarah was baptized June 29, 1800 at Beaverdam Reformed Church, Berne, Albany County, New York. Both Thomas and Sarah are buried atop a knoll overlooking Greenwood Avenue at Mount Evergreen Cemetery in Jackson, Michigan.

¹ These pictures were set as a pair in matching frames and had been packed away in Lillian Bereniece (Barnes) Hoeg's storage room upstairs at the Centennial Farm in Horton, according to Lillian's son Bion Lynwood "Lyn" in email dated May 27, 2006 and June 14, 2007. From his January 27, 2006 email: "You can see the likeness of my grandfather... Sharp features and clear blue eyes, typical of many of the Barnes clan." [The "grandfather" was David Barnes, Jr.]

² Sarah's traditional birth date was 5/23/1800. The Beaverdam church record shows it as 5/19/1800.

Thomas, Sally, and their seven children left Seneca Falls, Seneca County, New York in 1843 and arrived in the new village of Jackson, Michigan on October 24th of that same year.⁴ They originally settled in the city of Jackson, then Summit Township, eventually moving to Tompkins Township, where they were located in 1858. The entire family remained near Jackson, and it wasn't until future generations that it began to spread out across the country. At the time of this writing (1976) the majority is still near Jackson or at least in Michigan, and Jackson continues to be what one might safely consider the "family seat."

Some members of the Thomas and Sarah Barns family did not begin spelling their name "Barnes" until after arriving in Michigan. The large, granite marker near which Thomas, Sarah, David, Mary, Arvilla, Aaron S., and other Barneses are buried at Mt. Evergreen Cemetery in Jackson honors this history by carrying the name BARNS. A single spelling of "Barnes" normally will be used in the following accounts to eliminate possible confusion, and since that spelling has been nearly universally adopted by later generations.

2005 Update—Tompkins Neighbors

Thomas and Sarah were living at Tompkins Township, Jackson County, Michigan, at the time of the 1860 Federal census. A number of families were neighbors in 1860 that would play significant parts in the Barnes family's future.

Hause/House

The family of Isaac Hause, 53 b. NY, having real estate valued at $1,800 and personal at $500, with wife Lydia, 44 b. NY, and daughters Priscilla, 17 b. MI, and Jane, 16 b. MI, still living at home. (Eventually, Aaron Barnes would marry Jane as his first wife.)

Cayuga Co., NY's 3rd Ward, two of Matthew's children, Calvin and Vesta, were the only people still living in the family homestead. Neither had married, and both were spelling their last name "Sittsen."

Hatton/Hatten

The Hatten family consisted of Ann (Smith) Hatton, 53 and born in England, with real estate valued at $1,800 and personal at 200, the widow of Robert Hatton, Sr., b. England. Also living in the same household were son Robert, Jr., 22 b. MI, with personal estate valued at $200, and daughter-in-law Sophronia (Barnes) Hatten, 25 b. NY, with their son David, 3 months b. MI. Nearby were William Smith, 40 b. England, and Elizabeth Smith, 80 b. England, Ann Hatten's brother and probably their mother.

Fotte/Foot/Foote

The families of: 1) Horace, 41 b. VT, and Adelia Fotte, 31 b. NY, with their five children; 2) Clark, 71, b. VT, and Harriet (Boardman) Fotte, 63 b. VT, and two of their children, all born in Vermont; 3) and Lewis, 30 b. NY, and Harriet (Fotte/Foot) Legget, 26 b. VT, with their 1-year-old son George, b. MI. Little George's importance to the Barnes family was that he would one day be the father of Clyfford Arthur Leggett, who would be married to Thomas and Sarah's great-granddaughter Helen Mary Barnes for 78 years. George was a grandchild of Clark and Harriet Fotte. Within a generation, "Legget" would receive an additional "t" to make it "Leggett."

Roods/Rhodes

Next door to each other, again in Tompkins Twp., were the Roods and Field families. The Roods were comprised of Edwin, 36 b. NY, with a personal estate of $200, and Sarah (Barnes) Roods, 36 b. NY, and three children: Horace, 6, Harriet, 4, and Ellen, 2, all born in Michigan.

Field/Fields

The Field family consisted of William, 37 b. NY, with real estate valued at $2,700 and personal value of $1,000, and Melissa (Barnes) Field, 36, b. NY, and children: Titus, 14, Louisa, 13, Vestalina, 11, Philitus, 9, Lenora, 6, and Arvilla, 1, all born in Michigan.

LATER GENERATIONS

Article On The Heroic Death Of William Truman Field

The following is a true story as printed by the Jackson Citizen Patriot newspaper concerning the death of William Truman Field, who died in a train wreck on July 13, 1913. William was a son of Horace Melvin Field and Nellie Ferris Schram, grandson of William Field and Melissa Barnes, and great-grandson of Thomas Barnes and Sarah Sittser.

Wife Cannot Signal Husband Any More

A story of devotion between husband and wife, an equal which has not been brought to light in the city in many years, was revealed by the railroad accident in which Fireman W. T. Field met death, Sunday.

Mr. Field was only recently assigned to the Grand Rapids run. Prior to his beginning work on this line he was fireman on the old middle division of the Michigan Central, his run being from Jackson to Kalamazoo and Michigan City. At that time Mr. Field had just been married and resided with his parents at 222 Oak Hill Avenue near the Carr Street bridge.

Residents of the vicinity of the old Carr Street bridge tell the story of the wife's devotion to her husband whose work took him from her side for the greater part of the time during their early married life. Each night as the engine on which Mr. Field fired neared Butler's crossings west of the city on its way into Jackson, the engineer pulled the whistle cord for three long blasts. The shriek of the engine could be plainly heard on Oak Hill Avenue and no sooner would it sound out on the midnight air than the door of the Field residence would open and the form of a woman would start out into the night. A few moments later a lantern would flash out in the darkness on the Carr street bridge. As the big locomotive plowed on its way underneath the cement structure Fireman Field ceased his labors for a moment to keep a lover's tryst with the woman who was still his sweetheart. The lantern waved back and forth. The coal-blackened fireman swung out on the cab and waved an answering salute to the swinging lantern with his handkerchief. The engine rushed on into the darkness; the cars rumbled past. There was no chance for words of greeting, but those speechless symbols spoke volumes to two hearts pulsing and vibrant with love and devotion. As the Star Spangled Banner told Sir Francis Scott Key that "all was well" with the patriots of 1775 so the midnight lantern and the wave of the handkerchief told this devoted couple that "the run was most over and all was well."

The ties of love which have cemented the two together so strongly were broken, Sunday, in the fatal wreck north of Jackson. Fireman Field's devotion to the bride of his youth was but prophetic of his devotion to duty. When he saw death but a few seconds ahead of him he stuck to his post and did his best to save the passengers who, in a measure, were depending upon him and his engineer.

The funeral of Mr. Field will be held at the home of his father, 222 Oak Hill Avenues at 2:30 PM. Wednesday. A private car will stop at Webb block hall to take the firemen to and from the funeral. Interment will be made at Woodland Cemetery.

William J. Nixon Memorial Park

Lieutenant William "Jim" Nixon was the husband of Doris Ann McNickle, who was a daughter of Marshall McNickle and Lyndell J. Levensgood, granddaughter of Fred H. Levensgood and Myrtie Adell Rhoades, great-granddaughter of Edwin M. Rhoades and Sarah Ellen Barnes, and 2nd great-granddaughter of Thomas Barnes and Sarah Sittser. Jim was a policeman in Jackson, Michigan, where he was killed in the line of duty April 27, 1978. As a tribute to this ultimate sacrifice for the community, a park was rededicated and renamed in his honor on May 2, 1978. The park, now called the "William J. Nixon Memorial Park," is located at the northeast corner of North and Cooper streets in Jackson. It originally had been part of the St. John's Catholic school campus. In 1976 it had been dedicated as the "North-Cooper Recreational Park."

A Time Of Tears

Between 1855 and 1877, a period of 22 years, there were at least as many deaths in the branches of the Barnes and Field families. Due to dysentery and other causes, the tragedies occurred in short spans of time, bringing floods of tears until there were no more to cry.

As if to warn of what was to come, David Barnes lost half of his family of four between 1855 and 1856, including his wife Arvilla and son Murvin. Only he and his daughter DonZetta would survive.

In the 1860 Federal Census as taken in Jackson County, the family of William (Son of Thomas and Charity) and Melissa (dau. of Thomas and Sarah Barnes) Field included six children. Another child, Horace M., was later born to them making a total of seven children and nine family members in all. Yet, in spite of its size, within 12 years, from 1860 to 1872, 66% had perished, including both parents. Out of nine people, six had died. Calvin Titus Field, one of these victims, died in 1872, just over a year after his own daughter Bertha died.

Between 1860 and 1870, the family of Philo and Sevira (dau. of Thomas and Sarah Barnes) Bonham was reduced 60%, including both parents and one daughter. Those surviving were Andrew Philo and his sister, Dora Belle. In 1890, Andrew also died followed closely by his wife, Anna, leaving only Dora out of a family of five.

The family of Robert B. (son of Robert and Ann) and Sophronia (dau. of Thomas and Sarah Barnes) Hatton was the most fortunate of all the others, having a mortality rate of 33% between 1864 and 1869. During that time they lost two daughters, Effie and Sarah Ann. The survivors included both parents, two boys, and a girl.

The family of Horace (son of Thomas and Charity) and Martha Louise (dau. of Thomas and Sarah Barnes) Field was the hardest hit as far as percentage of family lost was concerned. Between the years 1866 and 1876, the family was nearly annihilated. Included in the number who died were Martha Louise, her son Willie and daughter Diantha (Nina). Only Horace survived, after which he married Louise Chamberlain.

Charity (McCain) Field died in 1877, having seen her children's families ravaged unmercifully. She had lost one of her two sons, William, a daughter Arvilla, and a large portion of her grandchildren and even great-grandchildren. On her deathbed, Charity did have a few consolations, though. Two grandchildren, Philetus and Horace M. Field, and her other son, Horace Field, would carry on the family name. Charity had lived so many years and had seen her children live so few.

Sarah Barnes, wife of Thomas, passed away in 1875. She, too, had lived many years and seen much death, far too quickly. Her family of nine, seven children, had been cut by 33% between 1866 and 1867. However, like Charity Field who would die two years after, Sarah had grandsons who would carry on the family name. David, her son, had built a new family upon the ashes of his tragic past, and seemed bent on defeating death with new life.

After Sarah died, her daughter Martha Louise Field passed away the next year leaving her husband Horace the last surviving member of their family. At this point the family of Thomas and Sarah was reduced 56%, leaving only two daughters, Sarah Ellen and Sophronia, and two sons, David and Aaron. Aaron, possibly defeated by the loss of so many loved ones and the eventual loss of both his own wives, never had children.

After note: In the lot at Mount Evergreen Cemetery that was owned by Aaron Barnes, there are over a half dozen unmarked graves.

Movements Of The Families Of David Barnes 1843 - 1874

David Barnes, son of Thomas and Sarah, came with his family from New York state in 1843. After 1848 he bought some land in Tompkins Township in Section 13 containing 80 acres. To this farm he brought his new wife, Arvilla (Field), and their daughter, DonZetta. Later they had a son, Murvin. In 1855, David and Arvilla lost their three year old son, and in 1856 David lost his wife. Between 1859 and 1860, David lived in Moscow, Hillsdale County, MI. While in Moscow, David met Mary W. Hood, daughter of James and Catharine (McNelley) Hood, one of 10 children. They married on 25 April, 1860, at the home of one of Mary's sister's, Mrs. Isabel Griswold of Moscow. After this, the newly weds moved to Jackson where David got a job as keeper and guard for the State Prison. He held this position for around seven years.

On 27 March, 1866, for $1000.00, David and Mary Barnes bought a lot on Cooper Street near the prison from Moses and Eliza French (Liber 59, p.433). *

On 12 February, 1867, David and Mary sold some of the land in Tompkins (about 10 acres) to Dennis Johnston for $100.00. Eventually they sold the other 70 acres (Liber 58, p. 516). *

On 29 October, 1867, they bought a lot from Charles Jenks for $175.00, to add to the property they already owned on Cooper Street (Liber 62, p.528). *

On 26 September, 1868, they bought land in Summit Twp, Section 17, from Horace and Martha Field, consisting of 101 acres. This cost $5,000 (Liber 82, p.216). *

On 26 September, 1868, on the same day they bought the land in Summit Twp, David and Mary sold the land they had acquired in two separate purchases on Cooper Street. This was sold to Horace and Martha Field for $2,000.00. It appears from this that David decided to go back to farming (Liber 82, p.219). *

On 20 January, 1874, David and Mary bought nearly 200 acres in Hanover Twp from Lathrop and Lois Lyon for $8000.00, in Section 5. To do this they had to take out a $2000.00 mortgage (Liber 82, p.219). *

On 21 January, 1874, they sold the 101 acres in Summit Twp, Section 17, for $7500.00, to Philip Hartman, excepting a small piece they sold to Richard Platt (Liber 82, p.218). *

Properties Of David And Mary Barnes

The Centennial Farm On Cross Lake

David June Barnes, the youngest son of David and Mary, was only a couple months old when the final papers were signed for the farm on Cross Lake in January of 1874. David Sr. and Mary continued to live there until they purchased their retirement home on Baldwin Street, Horton, in 1889. In January of 1890, David Sr.'s newlywed son Fredrick moved onto the farm with his wife Lillian. During their occupancy they had all four of their children: Bliss, Frances, Ray and Mary. The family lived on the farm until March of 1913, when they moved into Hanover. The Fred Barnes family was succeeded by that of his brother David June. Also in March of 1913, David June, his wife Edith Ann, and their four children: Wanda, Floyd, Frederick, and Lillian, moved onto the 39-year-old farm. (The house in Horton from which they moved is the same one now owned by Marjorie Lyons, their only offspring to be born on the farm.) Here they remained for many years. At this writing (1976), Lillian and her husband, Bion Hoeg, own and reside at the old homestead house, which they have remodeled beautifully. Fred and Floyd were still working the large farm as of 1976, which just may continue in the family for another hundred years.

Much of the information for the above article was provided by Mary (Barnes) Sterling from a family bible in her possession.

The Lot And House On Baldwin Street

In December of 1889, David and Mary Barnes bought a house and lot on Baldwin Street in Horton, Michigan, for their retirement. After they passed away, Will Barnes paid off the other heirs and bought the lot. Although Will and Nellie only lived at the house for two very short periods of time, they were able to gain an income by renting it out. They maintained their early residency in Chicago, and later at 1114 E. Ganson Street in Jackson. Will died in 1946 and in 1951 Nellie turned the property over to her daughter, Helen, and son-in-law, Clyfford, for monetary and other considerations. The Leggetts remained on the property until selling it in 1970, after they built their retirement home on Mechanic Street near the Mill Pond in Horton.

Another Pioneer Dead

The following is a news article found in the Horton Local newspaper about the death of David Barnes. The issue was printed for April 13, 1895, and a copy has been stored since in a back closet of the Horton Local newspaper, 116 W. Main Street, Hanover, Michigan.

David Barnes a pioneer of Jackson County, died at his home in Horton April 6, 1895, aged 68 years, 11 months, and 3 days.

Deceased was born May 3, 1826, at Mentz, Cayuga County, New York. He came to Michigan with his parents when 17 years of age and settled in Summitt Township. He moved to Tompkins, in same county, in [1843] and from there to Jackson a few years later where he held a position as guard and keeper at the state prison for 7 years.

He moved to Hanover Township in 1874, where he lived until he moved to Horton in 1891. With the exception of one year in Moscow he has resided in Jackson County since coming to Michigan.

Was married to Arvilla Fields in 1848. Two children were born to them: Murvin who died at 4 years of age, and Donzetta, wife of C. W. Harris of Moscow, Hillsdale County. This union was broken by the death of wife in 1856. He was married to Mary Hood, of Moscow, in 1860, who survives him together with the six children of their union; Martin, Fred, Jennie, Thomas, William, and David, all of this vicinity.

Words are but weak things to employ in portraying the character of the deceased. The writer of this sketch was intimately acquainted with him for nine years, and we knew him to be a manly man, a kind husband, an indulgent father, and as a neighbor generous to a fault. His influence was for good and he was respected by all.

The funeral was held at the Horton Church April 9th, Rev. W. L. Gibbs officiating, and his remains were placed in Jackson Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our most heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindness during the sickness of and their assistance in paying the last tribute of respect to our husband and father.

Aged Horton Woman Dies (special to the Citizen Press)

July 11, 1911 - Mrs. Mary Barnes died Saturday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jennie Fales. Deceased was born in Portland, New York December 7, 1834. She is survived by six children, five sons and one daughter. They are: Martin, of St. Paul, Minn.; William of Chicago; Thomas of Jackson; Fred, June, and Mrs. Jennie Fales of Horton. The funeral was held at the home of her daughter, Monday at 1:00 PM, Rev. Ellinger of Albion, officiating, interment in Mt. Evergreen, Jackson, beside her husband.

Fredrick Fales Obituary

The following is an obituary for a man said by his grandson, Donald Fredrick Fales, to have owned a lumber yard in Horton, Michigan, and at one time to have been the village's Mayor and Sheriff. The account is taken from a newspaper clipping printed in October of 1909 in a Jackson County newspaper and preserved in the Fales Family Bible, now held by Donald Fales.

Death Removes from our Midst a Good Man

Fredrick Fales was born in Courtland, New York, March 21st, 1853, and died at his home in Horton, October 6th, 1909, aged 56 years 6 months and 16 days. The deceased with his parents came to Michigan in 1861 settling in Kalamo, Eaton County. Here his early manhood was spent. In the summer of 1885 Fred came into the Cross Lake neighborhood to work, it was at that time that he became acquainted with Miss Jennie Barnes, who resided in that vicinity, and after two years courtship were united in marriage, January 3rd, 1887. To them one son was born who resides at home and who will be a great comfort to his mother in the years to come. Fred Fales was a plain unassuming man. He was strictly honest and upright, and thus bore the respect of all who knew him. For the past twenty years the deceased has been one of a quartet to furnish music at funerals in Horton and surrounding country. The quartet was composed of Walter C. Snyder, Mrs.

Nellie Cavanaugh, Mrs. Nellie Crosthwaite and Mrs. Julia Crosthwaite organist. Thus you will see he has been doing for others all these years and not till now are we able to note the value of this good man in our community. The home life of the deceased was exemplary, his love of wife, family and home were the uppermost ideals of this upright man. He lived right and it is said that "they that live right die right." Thus we are called to mourn the demise of a beloved neighbor and friend, whose everyday life was worthy of emulation. The following are relatives left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband, father and brother, Jennie, his wife and son Frank, of Horton, Frank Fales of Vasser, Mich., and Ferris Fales of Lansing brothers. The funeral was held at the Methodist Church in Horton Sunday afternoon, Rev. Ellinger officiating. The interment took place in the beautiful cemetery at Horton. The floral offerings were many and profuse, and bore silent evidence of the esteem in which he was held.

Born To Fly

In November of 1971, William Aaron Barnes Sr. sold his Cessna 170 airplane. The Cessna was a victim of skyrocketing inflation, fuel prices, and annual inspection fees. Its sale ended a 16-year era during which "Billy" had always had his own plane. Two things it didn't end were Billy's love for flying and his family's memories of the adventures they all shared for so long.

You might say it all started when Billy was still in the crib. He'd fly his hands around and make professional landings, thus convincing his mother that he'd one day be a pilot. At an early age Billy would ride his bike to the airport to watch in fascination all the aircraft. His first flying lessons began at age 15 years, financed by the sale of some milk and a cow. When those funds ran out he went to work as a line man for Zantops Flying Service at Reynold's Field in Jackson. He started September 2, 1950, and on October 1, 1956, received his Pilot's license; the goal interrupted by several events including service in the U.S. Army. After release from the Army on April 7, 1955, Billy sold his house and bought the first plane, a Cessna 120.

In the years that followed, Billy, his wife Florence, and their two children William Aaron Jr. and Zandra Denise shared many flying experiences together. Billy Jr. later wrote the account of his father's flying career in a short story entitled "Flying from the Cock-Pit," written in 1973. The following is an excerpt/paraphrase from that story, taking place in the winter of 1962.

During all the years of flying Dad made quite a few trips for Yardman Inc. of Jackson. But of all the trips, I dare say this had to be the most daring and exciting. One time my father was flying some big-shots from Yardman and one of their sons to Springfield, Ill. It snowed so hard that the airport was only open to IFR traffic. Asking permission to land, he was requested to take a holding pattern. The next day the newspaper read:

Light Aircraft Lands Safely Near Cantrall

By: Robert Estill

A light plane running low on fuel made an emergency landing in a snow packed field near Cantrall about 7 p.m. Sunday with all four passengers walking uninjured from the downed craft. The pilot of the single engine Cessna one seventy, William Barnes of Jackson, Michigan was en route to Springfield with three other Jackson, Michigan people when he was forced to ditch his plane. The twenty-nine-year-old pilot said he was flying a holding pattern over the area waiting for clearance from Capitol Airport when he noticed the fuel shortage and "began looking for a place to set his craft down."

Capitol Airport authorities explained that when visibility is less than three miles as it was during the snowfall Sunday incoming aircraft are required to fly in a holding pattern five miles from the airport until they can get a clearance. Barnes apparently didn't consider his fuel shortage an emergency, airport authorities said, and didn't request priority. Aware of the fuel condition and the poor visibility Barnes said he picked out the field in the event he had to make a forced landing. Barnes, who has been flying as a hobby since he was seventeen, said the landing was normal despite the fact the snow was a foot deep. He credited the plane's tricycle landing gear for his safe landing in a field near the farmhouse of Carl Engle, about a mile east of Cantrall. The plane wasn't damaged and he plans to fly it back to Jackson, Mich., today. . . .

At least the landing made good an assuring boast the pilot said he always made to his wife before making a flight. "I always told her," Barnes stated, "that if the power ever failed or I ran into any trouble, I could put it down in anyone's backyard."

Burt and his wife Nina were affiliated for a number of years with the New York Central Railroad in Jackson County. (Much of this information is courtesy of Bion "Lyn" Hoeg.)

Buggy Trip South

The following is an account of a horse and buggy trip made by 24 year-old William Hood Barnes and his friend Frank Hitchins, a photographer, down south.

Louisville, Kentucky, November 19, 1894. We reached this city today about 9:00 o'clock. Have not had much trouble getting places to stop over night coming through Indiana.

Saturday we reached Charleston, Indiana about 5:00 o'clock P.M. and took the wrong road leading out of that place. We traveled 'till about nine o'clock when we came to the Ohio River about fifteen miles above Jeffersonville, the place we were making for.

We came to a small town of about half dozen houses called Bull Creek. We afterwards heard that it was called the "Dark Hole," and it was the darkest hole I ever saw. I went into a store to inquire about the road and was informed that the road ended there, was merely a freight road.

We had to descend south very steep bluff to reach the town, and there was nothing for us to do but take a back track which we did, and after reaching the level country again everybody had gone to bed so we drove in some woods, built a fire and camped for the night.

The next morning we went to a farm house and got some breakfast and fed Old Charley. After breakfast we went over to the Bluffs from the top of which we could see the river for a great distance north and south.

When we came down we had to get hold of a tree and get in range of another and start for it. Failing to catch it a person would go rolling down the side of this bluff at the rate of two forty.

There is a bridge that crosses the river here but is not yet completed. Over one hundred men have been killed during its construction.

November 21, 1894 - we are staying tonight about thirty-five miles south and west of Louisville. Last night we stayed at a place where there were ten persons slept in one room. C. and myself had to sleep on the floor with nothing to lay on but our blanket. But as that was the best we could do we had to grin and bear it.

The man that we are staying with tonight is a relative of General Winfield Scott. The country about here is very broken, ranges and bluffs extending east and west with level land between. There is a large amount of fruit raised on the high lands.

November 22, 1894 - we are staying about four miles from Elizabethtown with a very nice family. The soil through here is of a brick color and does not look as if it could raise any crops but the people say it is quite fertile.

The roads are quite narrow. Some places the fences are not more than fifteen feet apart and quite often we come to gates across the roads. The people around here are very curious to know what our business is. They stop us in the road and holler to us from the fields to make inquiries in regard to the nature of our business.

Magnolia, Kentucky November 24, 1894 - we stayed last night in a house that Abraham Lincoln lived in in his boyhood. It is a two story log house but does not stand on the ground that it did when Lincoln lived in it. We visited the old Lincoln farm this morning. It is about three-quarter mile from the house where we stayed. Saw the place where the house stood in which Lincoln was born. A few stones lying about on the ground marks the place. It is about sixty rods from the road. There is a spring about five rods from where the house stood called Lincoln Spring. An effort is being made to establish a public park at the springs. I cut a stick that grew a few rods from the house for a canes

When the man where we stayed last night found out where we were from he began to laugh and said whenever he met a person from Michigan it reminded him of a regiment of soldiers from Michigan that camped near his place during the war. He said they killed every hog, sheep and cow in the neighborhood.

The farmers through this part of the country depend entirely on commercial fertilizer to keep the land in condition. The cost of using it averages about $1.00 per acre. Have not seen a heating stove in about two weeks. Fireplaces are used almost altogether.

Cottontown, Tennessee, December 1, 1894 - we reached this State yesterday. The country is pretty rough. Some farms are fertile, while the soil of others is light. A large amount of tobacco is raised through here. The people we are staying with are from Ohio. They have been here seven years. Gave $3.00 per acre for the farm and now can sell it for $10.00 per acre. The folks are very hospitable in this State and also in Kentucky. We do not have any trouble in getting places to stay and lots of places the people will turn a horse out of the stable to make room for our horse. We ate some bread tonight for the first time in three weeks. Biscuits are eaten three times a day by nearly every family.

During the war a soldier from Illinois got lost near this house and went into a house to make inquiries. There were four (guerrillas) in the house and they killed him. His body was found by his comrades and they killed one of his murderers while the remainder escaped. His body was placed on the bank of a river with a notice attached to it to the effect that any person removing the body would share the fate of the murdered man.

Dorritown, Tennessee December 2, 1894 - It has been a rainy day for the first time since we left Indiana. We are staying with some people tonight that are about fifty years behind the times. There is a young married couple, the lady's two brothers and her two kids. She is pounding on a Dulcimer and I can hardly tell whether I am here or at an Irish wake. There are four beds in the room - one in each corner, a kid is sleeping in one of them and its snoring sounds like the exhaust of a locomotive. The lady asked me if Michigan was a town.

Gorsham, Tennessee December 3, 1894 - we are staying with a man named Manuel Avaritte. We stopped here about one o'clock and made a picture for our dinner. After dinner he invited us to remain with him overnight, we accepted the invitation. He and his wife live alone, they are very hospitable people and were wealthy before the war, owning a large amount of land and about fifteen slaves. He thinks that owning slaves is perfectly right as do nearly all the southerners. He thinks that the negroes were in a great deal better condition under bondage than in their present condition. A great many negroes that were slaves say that they saw better times then than now.

Some of the planters at the close of the war discouraged at the loss of their slaves let their plantations go to ruin. While others claim that they can conduct a farm cheaper by hiring the Negroes than by owning them. When they owned them they say they had to feed and clothe them, pay their doctor bills, and raise their children.

Avarite's family lived near Franklin during the war and they say the next day after the battle at Franklin, the retreating rebels were passing by the house all day. They would stop and ask for something to eat. Their slaves were cooking for them all day. But could not cook fast enough to supply their wants and they would ask for raw meat when there was none cooked. The people suffered far more at the hands of the southerner who joined the Federal army than by the northerners.

December 4, 1894 - we are staying about fifteen miles from Nashville. We have come through some pretty rough country today. Just after dark tonight we came to a house between two large bluffs. We asked to stay overnight and were told that we could stay. An old man and woman were living there alone. After we had put our horse in the barn we went into the house and sat down by the fireplace. In a few minutes the old lady came in the room and asked us if we intended to pay for our lodging with a picture. We told her that such was our intention. "Well" she said "I don't want a picture of this old house. I have seen too much of it already and if that is the way you intend to pay for your lodging, you had better roll out." And we did "roll out" for we knew we could get another place all right.

White Bluff, December 7, 1894 - went to Nashville yesterday and got a bottle of collodion. Like the city well, much better than Louisville. It covers a large amount of country, the houses not being very close together. We left the city about five o'clock P.M. and drove about nine miles when we got a place to stay for the night. It is no trouble to get accommodations. A great many never refuse to keep a person overnight. They are easy going people, take the world just as it comes and never worry. Before eating supper we asked if there was a chance to wash. The man laughed and said "You folks wash before supper? We always wash before breakfast!"

We are staying tonight with a man named Campbell, about seven miles from White Bluffs. He is an ex-Confederate soldier and likes to talk about the war. According to his story the Confederates were far better soldiers than the Federals, and that they never lost a battle except when they were out-numbered about five-to-one. He said that nearly all the food the Rebels had during the war they took from the Union men and that at the beginning of the war all the arms of Rebels had were shot guns and old rifles. But after a battle they would get all the guns they could that belonged to the dead and wounded Union men. He also said that the southern soldiers did not have any bad feelings for the Union soldiers but that they were fighting for one cause and that was to keep the Negro from being freed and that if the northern men knew the Negroes as well as the southern men did they would not want to set them free. He is well posted on war history and gets very excited talking about same.

We came through about nine miles today without seeing a house. There is lots of game through here such as deer, wildcats, turkey, etc.

Loretto, Tennessee December 15, 1894 - came here today, are staying overnight about three-quarters of a mile north of the village of Loretto. We took dinner yesterday with a family from Michigan. The first people we have stopped with from that State since we started. Their name was Washbury and were from Kent County. The people's name is Beckmann where we are now staying.

Afternote

Frank Hitchens went to work as a photographer at Tray's Studio on the south-west corner of Mechanic Street and E. Michigan Avenue in Jackson. In the 1930's, still a bachelor, he died of throat cancer while spending his last days with his closest friends, Will and Nellie Barnes.

An Account Of The Family Of Will And Nellie Barnes Including The Year They Spent On A Farm

Soon after Will Hood Barnes and Nellie Mae Bliss were married in 1899, they moved to Chicago, Ill. where Martin, Will's brother, lived with his new wife, Susan Ella Bliss, Nellie's sister. Martin had word that there were some jobs available and this was enough to get the newly-weds to leave Michigan. Will and Nellie lived at 10943 Wabash Avenue in Chicago and had four children: Chuck, Helen, Thomas, and Jennie.

Around 1917, the oldest son, Chuck, left the frantic, bustling city life and went West in protest. In 1918, with hopes that their roving son would return, the family moved back to Michigan - to a vacant family residence on Baldwin Street in Horton. Chuck did return, and in the spring of 1919 the family once more moved, this time to a rented farm just down the road from David June Barnes' farm on Cross Lake near Horton. Will, Nellie and the brood would live on this farm for only a little over a year, but during that short period of time a number of misfortunes would unquiet their lives.

The Year Of The Farm

The Will and Nellie Barnes family moved to the farm in the spring of 1919. Besides farming the land and raising sorghum, Will worked at Jackson Steel Products in Jackson. He would leave home and take the Sunday night train to Jackson, to return again on the following Saturday night train. During the week he boarded with his brother-in-law and sister's son and his wife, Frank and Charlotte Fales on Bates Street. Will's son Chuck tended the farm while the other kids went to school.

The first unwanted happening was too impatient to wait for the family to settle in. Helen and Chuck spent the night at their uncle June's farm down the road so they could get an early start in helping move the next day. That next day, while carrying a carton of canned fruit, Helen fell down the cellar stairs at the new residence. Chuck found her there and, as a result of the fall, she was blind.

Helen's folks put her to bed for a time until a friend of the family mentioned taking her to a chiropractor in Jackson. Following the advice, Nellie arranged with her husband's brother and sister-in-law, Thomas and Pearl Barnes of Jackson, for her and Helen to stay with them until completion of the chiropractic treatments. Thomas and Pearl lived on E. Main Street (now E. Michigan Avenue), and the location was within easy access of the city streetcar.

After the second treatment, as they rode the streetcar back to her aunt and uncle's house, Helen noticed she could faintly see. Not wishing to build false hopes, Helen kept this awareness to herself until it either proved permanent or passing. That evening, as the family sat down to dinner, Helen said she wasn't hungry and went into the front room. Suddenly she called, "Mother, I can see!"

Another misadventure occurred when the family was preparing to take the car into Horton one evening. As Nellie bent down to pick something up off the ground, Chuck looked back from his vantage point on the drivers seat and saw all clear behind. He thus backed the car down the driveway. Unfortunately his mother had bent down directly behind the car and was thus run over. Owing to the way those cars were built, she came out of it relatively unharmed.

There were other maladies, such as the time Chuck got kicked by a horse, and another when the entire family came down with a siege of boils so bad that Will couldn't go to work. By the fall of 1920 Will and Nellie had had enough. The family moved back to the house in Horton and remained there for the next three years. In the fall of 1923 they moved to 1114 E. Ganson in Jackson, except for Helen who had just gone to Toledo and then to Buffalo, N.Y. with her new husband, Clyfford Leggett, and Chuck, who had married Esther Harman two years before.

The preceding account was told to the author by Mrs. Jennie (Barnes) Paige and her sister, Mrs. Helen (Barnes) Leggett.

Dean Of Nation's Fraternity Housemothers Dies At Albion

Albion- (Special) -Mrs. Susan B. Barnes, 76, the unofficial dean of American fraternity housemothers, died here Thursday after a few weeks illness.

Mrs. Barnes had been a housemother at Albion college for 28 years. She served at the Sigma Nu fraternity house for 26 years prior to the summer of 1943, when draft calls caused the group to suspend its activities. Since then, she had been housemother at one of the women's annexes near Susanna Wesley hall.

In 1942, the Sigma Nu group held a reception in honor of her 25 years of service and announced that their investigation failed to show any housemother that had served a single fraternity so long. She was a member of the First Methodist church, being treasurer of its Ladies Aid society for some years before it became the WSCS. She was also affiliated with Albion chapter No. 124, OES.

Surviving are a son, George Barnes, Detroit; two stepsons, Kenneth Barnes, New York, and Earl Barnes, Detroit; three sisters, Mrs. W. F. Kendrick, Holland, Mrs. George Buckman, Hanover, and Mrs. Will Barnes, Jackson, and a brother Charles Bliss, Albion.

Three Albion clergymen, the Rev. G. Dempster Yinger, President John L. Seaton of the college, and Dr. F.S. Goodrich, will officiate at the funeral Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Marsh Funeral home. Burial at Horton.

Susie was born August 28, 1868 and died April 12, 1945. She was a sister of Nellie Mae (Bliss) Barnes and widow of Martin A. Barnes. The above article was by the Jackson Citizen Patriot and preserved in one of Horace Levensgood's scrapbooks.

Tom and Hilma Barnes' Story - Michigan or Bust

Hilma Sorola, raised in a Finnish settlement near Fort Bragg, California, went to work in San Francisco to support herself while attending Mission High School. Both she and her sister had moved to the city.

In the summer of 1926 she accepted an invitation to double-date with her sister, Siiri (pro. Si'ree). Siiri's boyfriend, Frank Marble of Washington state, was in the peacetime Army and stationed at the Presidio. He had a soldier friend, Tom Barnes, whom he wanted Hilma to meet. It was thus arranged that the two blind dates would meet and the two couples go to a movie.

The evening was enjoyable and soon Tom and Hilma began to date steadily. Two years later Hilma became Tom's December Bride. At the time he had just gotten out of the service and had a civilian job. She was working at Bell Telephone.

In the spring of 1933 Tom hitchhiked to Michigan, stopping at fairs along the way to earn money wrestling. The summer of that same year he borrowed enough money from his father to return to California. Hilma, in the meantime, had been given the option of either continuing working at Bell or receiving a $25 bonus for each year of service to the company. The Depression was on and it was Bell's way of cutting personnel without firing them.

When Tom returned, she accepted the $100 bonus for her 4 years and, with $25 of it, she and Tom bought an old Model T Ford. Tom set to work rigging the back seat to fold down as a bed. Next he stowed a mattress. Finally, after buying two used tires for $2 each and some groceries, they were off to Michigan.

During their trip from San Francisco through Reno, Salt Lake City, Laramie, Omaha, and Chicago the couple roughed it. At night the back seat was folded down and the mattress spread for sleeping. During the day their meals were all cooked out-of-doors.

Coming across the Rockies, as they were climbing one of the mountains, the Ford's forward clutch wore out. Undaunted, Tom turned the car around and backed the rest of the way up, pretty as you please.

The Ford's forward clutch was replaced in Salt Lake City, after which the couple continued on. Before arriving in Michigan they stopped in Chicago to visit the Century Progress World's Fair for a couple days; then on to Jackson - their ultimate destination.

Tom and Wilma Barnes arrived in Jackson just a few days before the Bliss family reunion was to be held (always held on the 4th of July). On the day of the reunion the Model T was packed with Tom's parents, Will and Nellie, and his brother and sister-in-law, Chuck and Esther, with their four girls and baby boy. Soon they were all off to Susie Barnes' house in Albion for what was to be Hilma's first family debut.

Africa Nov. 30, 1943

Dear Folks,

I am sorry that I didn't get around to write sooner but lately I have been pretty busy. I want to thank you for the swell package that I received from you on Nov. 24. I surely enjoyed everything that was in it. Gifts coming from the good old US surely are appreciated over here, as buying anything over here is impossible. I am sorry that I was unable to return the kindness by sending all of you something, but I couldn't even get over three X-mas cards to send and those were made up on a V-mail blank. But next year I hope that I will be in a better condition to do more about X-mas. I have received ten packages so far and boy they sure come in handy over here.

As you probably know by now, Harry and I aren't together anymore. Although I get to see him about every two weeks, which is better than not at all. We are going to try and get together X-mas day, but I don't know whether we can or not.

The weather here this time of the year is real warm, but gets rather chilly at nite. We all made some stoves out of 5 gallon cans so that helps out a little. I suppose that you had a nice Thanksgiving didn't you? We had a very nice dinner which included turkey, mashed potatoes with gravy, dressing, string beans, bread and butter (American), dates, coffee, pumpkin pie, and candy. So you can see about how we ate that day. There is only one thing that we regret and that is it's too bad that Thanksgiving don't come more often.

How did the hunting go this year, Bud? I sure missed those swell pheasant dinners but I'll get my share next year.

I heard that Uncle Tom was sent to Texas but I don't know what camp. Texas had ought to be a good place to be during the winter but I'd hate to spend another summer there.

Well, it is getting time that I was going to chow so will sign off. Thanks again for the swell package as I enjoyed it very much.

Write when you can!

Love,
Don

A BI-CENTENNIAL TID-BIT ON THE ANCESTRAL NAME OF CLARENCE BURNS JOHNSON

As told by "Tillie" Maher

"The name Johnson is incorrect. They were of Scotch-Irish descent presumably of Robert Burns and Sir William Johnston of Scotland. At the time of the Boston Tea Party the head of the house said 'he'd not have tea in his house or "T" in his name' and used the name of Johnson from then on. This is of course a Scandinavian name which they were not. They were also said to be descended from the Adams', John and John Quincy."

"Bells are Ringing for 'Hattie' & Her Brood"

Harriet Martha Rhoades married Clarence Burns Johnson on July 4th, 1876, a good day for celebrating! There was a time when California interests practically paid people to come to California. Grandpa was Scotch in name only (Johnston) but he just might have taken advantage of such an offer. They had Michigan friends residing in Ontario California so there they landed in 1892, when daughter Eva was 5 years of age. They then migrated to Long Beach California in 1900, no doubt to cool off by the beautiful blue Pacific - it was the resort of that era. Now comes the bell ringing history.

Eva was a telephone operator in Long Beach at the ripe old age of 15 when there was a 2-position switchboard in the rear of Schinerers Book Store serving 175 subscribers. Duration of service unknown.

Her second daughter Dorothy Avalon joined the Telephone Company in 1929 and retired in 1969 - 40 years service. Dorothy's second husband Cecil Smith "served" 31½ years '41 to '73. She "secured" a job for Eva's first daughter (her sister) Jerroldine Evelyn who served 33 1/3 years '29 to '62, Jerroldine's daughter Patricia Jean served 4½ years '44 to '48. Patricia's husband James Franklin Francis "joined up" 3-6-42 and is still employed. Jim's father Christian James Francis served 35 years prior to his death on 7-6-59.

Their son Robert Jerrold has 6 years of service and is still employed. Jerroldine's second husband George Francis Doidge retired in '66 with 46 years of service. This adds up to 9 of Alexander Graham Bell's faithful and a total of 230 1/3 years * of public service of which we are all, I am sure, justly proud.

appeared in the newspaper comic strips

P.S. If I may be permitted, I would like to include the 32 years service of my beloved stepmother Ethel Evangeline Maher, who was the real motivating force that inspired me to "go and do likewise." This brings the total years to 262 and 1/3 + .

D.A.M.

* This writer would like to mention service by some of Tillie's cousins: Royce Duane Paige, who would retired from Michigan Bell Telephone in Saginaw, Mich., with over 40 years of service, Charlene Frances (Paige) Garrett, who worked for Bell off and on for a number of years, and Lyndell McNickle of Jackson, Mich., with 24 2/3 years.

C.W.P.

By the Name of Bonham

There was once a lady by the name of Dora Buck - remembered as having white hair and being rather short. A woman who seemed full of life and energies. She was known to be a cousin, although, as sometimes happens, her 'cousins' did not know or put much thought into how she was related. Possibly even her children and grandchildren were hazy about the relationship. Dora is gone, now the last of our family to hare gone by the name of Bonham. This writer hopes to shed light on her story.

On 25 November, 1858, marriage vows were spoken by Philo Andrew Bonham and his intended, Sevira Ellen Barns.⁵ Officiating was the Reverend Silas Pomeroy, and witnessing were Sevira's brother, Aaron, and twin sister, Sophronia Ellen.

In 1859, Sevira and Philo ushered their first child, Clara Sophronia, into the world. Her visit was short and she died in 1860. On June 27, 1861, Dora Belle was born. Then, on 13 March, * 1862, Philo entered active duty in the Third Cavalry of Michigan at New Madrid, Montana. He was present at the siege of Island No. 10, and subsequently aided in carrying through the Mississippi Campaign. This Campaign completed its 25th engagement at Jack's Creek, Mississippi on 24 December, 1863. The regiment continued in the service of the States until March 15, 1866, when it was disbanded at Jackson, Mi.

It is possible that Philo was released from active duty after the completion of the Campaign. A son, Andrew Philo, had been born in November of that same year (1865), and on 25 February, 1864, Philo bought land from Nathaniel P. Drake and wife for $900  in Jackson, County. Had he lived, many things might have been different. The family might have prospered and been large. Its history might have been typical and relatively uneventful. He and Sevira might have grown old together, to play with their numerous grand and great-grand children. The Bonham name might have been remembered and passed on to other generations.

Philo died around August of 1864, leaving behind his wife with two infant children. It is not known how the remaining family survived the next six years. Possibly they moved in with Sevira's parents, Thomas and Sarah Barns, for a time. After Thomas died in 1866, Sarah also took up a nomadic status, moving from family to family.

Sevira Ellen died in 1870, leaving Dora and Andrew to be raised by their guardian and uncle, Horace Field, and his wife Martha Guise (Barns). In 1876, Martha also died. The traditional story has it that Dora and Andrew were separated and sent to different relative's homes.

* History of Jackson County by Interstate Pub. Co., p. 577

 Jackson record of land deeds

Andrew Philo Bonham, youngest child of Philo and Sevira, married in 1881 to Anna M. Wenman. He died in 1890. His wife, unwilling to continue without him, died two months after by her own hand.

Dora Belle Bonham married in 1878 to Willis R. Butler. They had three children before Willis died. *Dora married Benjamin Randall in 1890 and together had six children. They were together until sometime after 1902 when he, too, passed away. She later married Fred Buck and they had a number of happy years before he was accidentally electrocuted during a construction project in 1940.

It would appear from Dora Belle's history that she had a tremendous desire for the company of children; possibly to offset the loneliness she felt as a child from being without her own parents. In addition to raising her own nine children, born over a period between 1879 and 1902, she also raised one grandchild and one great-grandchild. In 1907, after her firstborn daughter, Bertha Ausmacher, died 2 days after having her own daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, she took the grandchild in to raise. Then in 1924, at age 63 years, Dora Belle took her great-grandson, Robert Macomber, in to raise after his parents Dorothy Elizabeth and Milton Macomber were divorced.

Many of Dora's years were spent running a boarding house on Beldon Road in Jackson. Around 1922 she and Fred Buck purchased a twelve-acre farm at 330 Blackman Road in Woodville, Michigan, where she lived until 1942. After 1942 her final years were spent between her son Charles James Randall's home near Los Angeles, California, and her daughter Lillian Striker's home in Jackson, Michigan.

- * Note: In the marriage registration book at the Jackson County building there is an incomplete registration for Dora (Bonham) Butler and Marvin E. Dunmore on December 18, 1889. The marriage did not take place as Marvin was taken sick that very day and died on December 23rd.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT - much of the above information was submitted by Robert Macomber of Ed Cajon, California.

HOPE SCHOOL AND AN IDEA WHOSE TIME HAD COME

Howard Oswald and Jennie Louise (Barnes) Paige comprised one of ten couples who founded Jackson's Hope School for mentally retarded children. One of their daughters, Margaret Ann, had been born with Down's syndrome. When the family moved back to Jackson from Saginaw in 1949, Howard and Jennie discovered that educational authorities in Jackson literally laughed at the idea of providing facilities or funding for Margaret or any other child with a severe mental handicap to receive some form of education or training. To compound matters, parental feelings of guilt and spousal accusations for bearing such children, and societal suspicion of the parents, ran deep. Superstition regarding and abuse of such children were common practice and tacit.

Howard became a primary instigator of a new movement—as early as 1951, when it still included cerebral palsy children—whose purpose was to educate parents of mentally handicapped children, and the community at large, so as to expose and eliminate the guilt, accusations, suspicion, superstition, and abuse, and to provide facilities and support for retarded children until the day Jackson's educational authorities finally assumed this obligation.

By latter 1952, the parents of mentally handicapped children where cerebral palsy was not the cause of retardation had to form their own society, as the cerebral palsy children were receiving help from the United Cerebral Palsy Association that could not be shared. Howard became president of the resulting Cooperative Association for Retarded Children, which soon changed its name to the Retarded Children's Society of Jackson Inc., from the time of its founding in October 1952 through 1957. This Society was the creator and sponsor of the Hope School project.

Jennie was a very active participant in the drama from its beginning. She took minutes at some of the meetings, made and received phone calls, helped feed countless volunteers, helped organize fund drives—including the selling of Claxton fruitcakes until assumed by the Civitan Club, was hostess to many social events, co-signed with Howard the letter of agreement purchasing the schoolhouse to be used for Hope School (cost: one dollar plus relocation of the building), and provided an ever vigilant central command post while accommodating a solid home environment for her family. Jennie continued on as a member of the Hope School board and then served on the membership committee for the Lyle Torrant Center. The Lyle Torrant Center project, founded in 1973, was Jackson's educational authorities' concession that this truly was an idea whose time had come. Hope School subsequently disappeared having served its purpose.

The Following Are Histories Of Some Barnes Cross-Branch Families

Charles Stuart Anderson, Husband of Sarah Vestalina Field

Robert H. Anderson was born in Ireland in 1810. He came to the United States in his seventh year, settling in New York City, from whence he removed to Tompkinsville, Richmond Co., NY, and in 1835 he emigrated to Rives, Mich, being the fifth family to locate in the township. He moved to Tompkins in 1836 and helped to organize the town, which he named after his former home.

Robert H. was elected Side Judge about 1838 and moved back to Rives Township in 1847. He also served as Justice of the Peace and in 1850 was elected member of the Constitutional Convention. He always figured prominently in local politics and was a Democrat.

Mr. Anderson was married in 1832. Of a family of nine children, six settled on farms within a mile of the father's farm in Section 32. He died Nov. 28, 1881; his wife, Hester Sharrott, died Nov. 27, 1893.

One of their sons, Charles Stuart Anderson, was born in Tompkins Twp., February 22, 1846. He married Sarah Vestalina Field, granddaughter of Thomas and Charity (McCain) Field and Thomas and Sarah Barnes, on March 26, 1868. They built their home in Rives Twp., Sec. 32, in 1869, a few rods from his father's estate; then had the old homestead until 1895, when he sold it to his oldest son, Floyd Lee. Together, Charles and Vestalina had 9 children.

Robert B. Hatton Jr., Husband of Sophronia Ellen Barnes

Robert Hatton was born in Kent Co., England, and married Ann Smith on March 8, 1830 in Hougham, Kent Co., England. Robert boarded a boat the same day and sailed for America. He came to Tompkins and bought 40 acres of his brother-in-law's, William Smith, who had come to America before and taken up land from the government. Then Robert built a log cabin and sent for his wife, Ann. To this union were born 5 children. One of these was Robert B., born October 14, 1839.

Robert B. Jr. met and married Sophronia Barnes, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Barnes. They married on December 1, 1859. After this they bought the old home and 60 acres more and built a new house and barn, and lived here until their deaths. To them were born 5 children, 2 of which died quite young.

Charles A. Fowler, Husband of Ella Rhoades

Louis L. Fowler, son of Joshua, Jr., and Mahala M. (Lester) Fowler, was born in Moravia, Cayuga Co., N.Y., on March 8, 1830. He received a good district school education in his native State, remaining with his parents and accompanying them to Michigan in 1848, when he was 18 years old. They settled just west of Hanover Village, Hanover Township. He remained with his parents until he was of age, when he married

Miss Lucy Meachem, daughter of Lyman and Mercy (Goodspeed) Meachem, on December 25, 1850.

After their marriage, Mr. Fowler worked a farm on shares. Eventually they bought 80 acres of land in Section 23, Pulaski Twp., and built a log house and began clearing the land. In 1860 he traded for land in Hanover Twp. and in March, 1861, moved to this farm which consisted of 136 acres in Section 15. The Fowlers were the parents of 4 children. One of these was Charles A.

Charles A. Fowler, the fourth child, was born April 15, 1860, and married Ella Rhoades on November 27, 1882. Ella was the granddaughter of Thomas and Sarah Barnes. Together they had three children.

Fred H. Levensgood, Husband of Myrtie Adell Rhoades

Christian Levensgood Sr. was born in Germany. He was smuggled aboard a ship bound for America by his mother when only 15 years of age. Mrs. Levensgood had already lost her husband and 4 sons in the Prussian Army and wanted to spare her last child.

While in America, Christian had 3 sons by his first wife and 2 daughters by his second marriage. About 1860 he came to St. Clair, Mich., and was later buried there. His son, Christian Jr., had a son, Peter, who died in Jackson, Michigan. Peter had some children, one of which was Fred H. Fred married Myrtie Adell Rhoades on October 21, 1890. Together they had five children, two of which died young.

Arvilla Field, Wife of David Barnes. William Field, Husband of Melissa Barnes. Horace Field, Husband of Martha Louise Barnes

It is claimed by the Field family that the Field family in the United States are all descendants of Sir John Field, (the famous English astronomer) who was knighted in the 15th century. The first ancestor of whom there is any record was Hubertus de la Feld, who went to England with William the Conqueror in 1066 from Alsace on the German border of France. The name Field is an ancient and honorable one in England. In the 14th century the English de la Felds dropped the French prefix and ever after signed their name Field. [Contributed by Horace Howard Field, great-grandson of Thomas and Charity (McCain) Field and Thomas and Sarah Barnes.]

* Thomas Field, a native of Massachusetts, was born March 18, 1785. He was a skilled carpenter which later came in very handy after he moved to Michigan. He married Charity McCain, born July 11, 1798 of New York, and together they had 8 children. In 1833, when their son Horace was only 3 years old, the family picked up and moved to Michigan. They came by team from LeRoy, Genesee Co., N.Y. to Buffalo, where they boarded the steamship William Penn (which later burned), and sailed for Detroit. After their arrival in Detroit they rented a team and completed the journey. In 1835, Thomas Field received a tract of land in Section 8 of Summit Twp. from the United States of America by Andrew Jackson, Cert.#1906.

William Field, born 1823, was the first-born of Thomas and Charity. In about 1846 he took Melissa Barnes, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Barnes, to wife. Together they had 7 children, among them being Sarah Vestalina, eventual wife of Charles Stuart Anderson.

Horace Field, born April 1, 1829, another son, married Martha Louise Barnes, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Barnes, on July 1, 1848. Together they had two children, both of which died young. He married again, this time to Louisa L. Chamberlain.

Arvilla Field, eldest daughter of Thomas and Charity, born about 1831, married David Barnes, son of Thomas and Sarah. Together they had two children, one boy, one girl. The son died when three years old.

* History of Jackson County by Interstate Pub. Co., p. 625. [Another reference indicates there may have been as many as 11 children in Thomas and Charity Field's family.]

Some Barnes Family Trivia

When Horace Field, son of Thomas and Charity (McCain) Field, married Louise/Louisa Chamberlain, he was marrying a first cousin once removed of his deceased first wife Martha Louise Barnes, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Sittser) Barnes. Horace Field and Louisa Lucretia Chamberlain were married August 4, 1877 at Grand Rapids, Kent Co., MI. Prior to the marriage Louisa had been a resident of Genesee, NY, and Horace, of Jackson, MI. They would make Jackson their home.

Louisa was a grandniece of Martha's father, Thomas Barnes. She was a daughter of Philetus (pro. Fil EE' tuss) and Julia L. (Barnes) Chamberlain of Rose, Wayne Co., NY, and later, Mendon, Monroe Co., NY. Julia L. was the first of six children born to Jeffrey Samuel Barnes and his wife, the former Lucretia Storke. Jeffrey had married Lucretia, daughter of Daniel and Margaret (Grey) Storke, October 11, 1818, just two years after the Aaron and Martha (Eggleston) Barnes family arrived in Mentz, Cayuga Co., NY, from Sharon, Litchfield Co., CT. Jeffrey was the older brother of Thomas, and his family moved often in New York and Michigan before finally settling in Quincy, Branch Co., MI, decades after Thomas had brought his family to Jackson Co., MI. Julia, named for Jeffrey and Thomas' sister who was possibly Jeffrey's twin, may have been the only child left in New York state. She had married Philetus December 31, 1837 at Rose. However, there is also a sister of Julia L., Louisa, who has yet to be accounted.

Philetus, Sr. was a farmer, but his and Julia's only son Philetus, Jr. became a trial lawyer, practicing continually from when he entered the Bar in 1879 until his death in 1937 at age 82. He married Elizabeth Stone Van Doorn and the family lived in Rochester, Monroe Co., NY. His son Arthur and other relatives also became attorneys. The Rochester law firm of Chamberlain D'Amanda, which Philetus founded, is still in operation today.

Philetus, Jr. had five sisters: Mary Esther, who married George P. Graves and lived in Wolcott, Wayne Co., NY; Louisa Lucretia, who married Horace Field (as discussed above); Philena Lovina, who married A. E. Goff and lived in Monroe Co., NY; Alice Julia, who married Dudley D. Allerton and lived in Bath, Steuben Co., NY; and Emma Cookingham, who married Benjamin F. Davis and lived in Chicago. (For additional information on the Jeffrey Samuel and Lucretia (Storke) Barnes family, see the topic: "Jeffrey Samuel Barnes Family," in Part 1, starting page 49.)

The Family of Hilm Sorola, Wife of Thomas Sidney Barnes

Ida Maria Lajala (pro. Lah'ya lah) was born on February 9, 1882; the only daughter of a family with 9 sons. She later married John Christian Sorola (pro. Sa row' lah) and in 1902 their first son, Charles Francis, was born. That same year John left Finland and came to America. He was to prepare for his family's eventual immigration.

Ida and Charles left their home at Reisjärvi (pro. Rees Yahr' vee) in 1904 (her passport is dated August 16, 1904). They arrived at Fort Bragg, California, and settled in the Finnish settlement of Tunnel Hill.

Tunnel Hill was located in Mendocino County just a short distance from the Port of Fort Bragg. The settlement consisted of several scattered farms and a few country schoolhouses. Here, John Christian had built a home and was working as a lumberjack.

All the Finnish farms at Tunnel Hill had sauna baths, an integral part of their culture. In the years that followed Ida's arrival there was one thing that could be counted on. Come Saturday, friends from nearby Fort Bragg would arrive to use the Sorola sauna. To round out the occasion the guests were always treated to good Finnish coffee and cake.

The Sorolas had six more children: Peter, Alina (who died very young), Axel, Siiri, Hilma, and Nick. Then, in 1913, tragedy struck. While out on a lumbering job, John Christian was killed in an accident. During the five years of her widowhood, Ida was occasionally visited by her brother, John Lajala, a bachelor and the only other of her own family to come to America.

Ida Maria remarried in 1918 to Henry Oja (pro. Oh'ya), after which they had a daughter, Lillian Marie. Then, on July 16, 1956, 52 years after she arrived at Fort Bragg and at age 74, Ida became a United States Citizen. She lived another seven years before she died in the winter of 1963. EPILOGUE

The sequential story of a family, any family, can rival any documented history in importance. Since the Biblical pairing of Adam and Eve the family unit has been the grassroots of every culture; of every civilization. If one pondered on the way things are it would eventually come to mind that every individual who ever influenced historical events had some kind of familial background. Whether he or she grew up in an orphanage or had innumerable Aunts and Uncles and hundreds of cousins, that person to a marked degree was influenced by concepts, prejudices, likes, dislikes, genetic traits, and most of all, attitudes held by that background.

As a man and wife stand at the door of a church, having said their vows and pledged their troth, the wish might not be far from their thoughts that they could glimpse, if even for a moment, that which would come of their years together. What effect would their marriage have on the future; on the generations ahead? Would their attitudes and parenthood spawn cowards or heroes? Would their progeny rejoice in clean, respectable living or sink to vice and debasement? So the thoughts may have been when Thomas Barnes, son of Aaron and Martha, took Sally for his wife. They would live together in a growing nation whose birth had taken place less than 50 years before. Their children would either help or hinder the furtherance of a proud national heritage.

There have been families who abused and some who refused their responsibilities to the future. Our nation and the world has suffered the trends. When ensuing curses and plagues subsided and the messy chores of restoration were left, they fell to the wholesome men and women whose heritage spoke of common sense, decency, and just priorities. They fell to the people whose very essence abhorred and eventually expurgated the evils.

Were Tom and Sally Barnes conscious today, this writer knows with certainty that their pride would be great. The family from New York has made a more than favorable influence on the past, present and future of American Civilization.

Letter Of Correction And Update (1977)

Charles W. Paige - 517 So. Rampart Blvd., #307 - Los Angeles, CA 90057
(213) 382-4778

Dear Family,

Here is a supplement to "The Record" which you received last year. In all around 116 copies total were distributed to nearly 30 subscribers. In addition copies have been given to various libraries across the country. Of the 116 copies - they've been distributed from coast to coast, with some even having found their way to Australia. In St. Clair Michigan a local columnist with family connections has even written an article in one of the newspapers about genealogies and inserted part of one of the stories from "The Record". The total impact of this endeavor will certainly not be fathomed for a long time to come. Thank you for your support and interest. That's where it all starts.

Reason Original Version's Page Numbering Was Done as It Was

For those of you who will be continuing to keep track of family data it affords you an opportunity to keep the inserted information pages in sequential order. Simply insert a data sheet in its proper place, leaving the reverse Side blank. In this way as someone reads the pages with numbers running in the opposite direction he'll be able to "skip over" blank sheets and continue unobstructed.

Gauge of Success

In the announcement letter which was sent out early last year telling of the Records And soliciting supports it was mentioned that the reason for the project was to rekindle family interest. In that respect the project has been a success. In 1974 the reunion attendance was around 25 people. In 1975 it shot up to over 702 and in 1976 it went up to over 90 people. Let's hope the trend continues. Maybe this year at the "Grove" in Horton on the second Sunday in August we'll have over 100!

On page 1 of "The Record" there was a paragraph about a Thomas and Sarah Barnes in the small town of Sharon Connecticut, who had a son Aaron that might be the same Aaron who was our Thomas' father. The evidence is overwhelming that such is the case, since almost no other Barneses are listed in those early days of Sharon. When biographies were done of local people in a book entitled "General History of the Town of Sharon, Litchfield County, Conn.," by Charles F. Sedgwick, A.M., in 1898, only one Barnes was mentioned. This one Barnes was the father of the first above-mentioned Thomas. It reads:

"Barnes, Thomas, was an early settler in the northwest part of town, and lived near the present residence of Mr. Roswell H. Hazzard. He came into town in 1750. He had three sons, Thomas, the oldest son, lived on the same place until his death, March 7, 1807, at the age of 74. Dan lived in the town of Amenia, N.Y. Jonah, the youngest son, was a physician, and a man of great wit and shrewdness. He lived at what is now called the Evertson place, west of the Governor house.”

Winter of ‘77 - excerpt from a letter written to me by H. Howard Field:

“Suppose you read about our big blizzard. To believe it you would have to see it. During my 47 years in Buffalo I have seen some real bad storms here but this one topped all. The wind blew at 60 mph for 4 days and nights and piled the snow in solid drifts. Near us on Parker Ave. the snow was up to the top of ranch-type homes. People tunneled a passage from their front doors to side doors. There were 2,700 cars buried up in metropolitan Buffalo. Drifts were up to electric wires and kids had to be cautioned to stay away. My son-in-law Colonel Blewett at the Air Base in Niagara Falls was tied up in Washington, DC for a week and found when he did get back his staff car was buried in an 18-foot drift. When found and dug out the entire top was crushed in.”

In ending off I just want to say that I’ve enjoyed being in this project with you. I hope that “The Record” has helped fill a need in your life and that it may spark future family endeavors.

Article No. 1--

Dean Of Nation's Fraternity Housemothers Dies At Albion:

Albion- (Special) -Mrs. Susan B. Barnes, 76, the unofficial dean of American fraternity housemothers, died here Thursday after a few weeks illness.

Mrs. Barnes had been a housemother at Albion college for 28 years. She served at the Sigma Nu fraternity house for 26 years prior to the summer of 1943, when draft calls caused the group to suspend its activities. Since then, she had been housemother at one of the women's annexes near Susanna Wesely hall.

In 1942, the Sigma Nu group held a reception in honor of her 25 years of service and announced that their investigation failed to show any housemother that had served a single fraternity so long. She was a member of the First Methodist church, being treasurer of its Ladies Aid society for some years before it became the WSCS. She was also affiliated with Albion chapter No. 124, OES.

Surviving are a son, George Barnes, Detroit; two step-sons, Kenneth Barnes, NY, and Earl Barnes, Detroit; three sisters, Mrs. W. F. Kendrick, Holland, Mrs. George Buckman, Hanover, and Mrs. Will Barnes, Jackson, and a brother Charles Bliss, Albion.

Three Albion clergymen, the Rev. G. Dempster Yinger, President John L. Seaton of the college, and Dr. F.S. Goodrich, will officiate at the funeral Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Marsh Funeral home. Burial at Horton.

Copied from an article by the Jackson Citizen Patriot as stored in a scrapbook held by Horace Levengood.

Notes for LEE MCGONEGAL:

Following is an email exchange between Charles Paige and Ralph McGonegal, Jr.

Sun, 15 Apr 2007 21:22:47:

Ralph-

Back in the 1930s my parents lived next to the family of a Ralph McGonegal on Lincoln Street in Jackson, Michigan. I believe that family was probably that of your father or grandfather. We were shirttail relatives, as my great-aunt Jennie (Barnes) Fales had married Lee McGonegal in 1921. However, I don't know whether Ralph was a descendant of Lee or perhaps a nephew, as the McGonegal family into which Lee was born was quite large.

Anyway, if you want to talk about this subject, please send me an email. It would be interesting to know exactly how that Ralph McGonegal family was related to Lee and who comprised the family. I would be happy to tell you about my family, also. My father and my eldest sister both had memories about their neighbors the McGonegals.

Would be interesting to hear from you.

Charles Paige

Wednesday, April 18, 2007 11:08 AM:

Well Mr. Paige, we certainly are connected.

My Grandfather and Grandmother, Archie and Libby McGonegal, still owned the house on Lincoln Street in the 1950's, when I knew them. Grandpa died in the early 1950's, and Grandma remained there until she died about 10 years later. My Dad, Ralph McGonegal, Sr. moved to 20 acres of the family farm on Kibby Rd when he returned after World War 2. The Kibby road farm was owned initially by "Uncle Zory", who had been a world traveller, an engineer in the Philippines. I believe Zory was dad's Great-uncle. I grew up on Kibby Road, next to dad's brother "Uncle Guy", who owned most of uncle Zory's farm, and within easy visiting distance of Dad's Brothers Frank and Ray and Sisters Marion McCain and Eva Oden, all of whom either stayed around Jackson or returned here after living elsewhere. I can remember the brothers, in front of the fireplace our living room, arguing (a favorite McGonegal pastime) about whether the family was Scottish or Irish.

In the early 1950's dad's "Uncle Lee" came to live with us on Kibby Road for a while. He'd lived alone on a farm North of Jackson until he couldn't be left by himself any more. I don't have any specific memories of how he left us, but I remember that he stayed with us, living in a small trailer in our back yard, for (I think) a couple of years. There is a family legend about Uncle Lee being begged by my sister and I to share his "Candy" with us, and I have a memory of sitting with him on the couch in mom's living room the day he decided to share. His "Candy" was chewing tobacco, which makes an unforgettable impression on a 5 year old.

To get the full family story, you'd want to talk to my Mom. Mom has spent years collecting the McGonegal genealogy, can portray the family back to 2 brothers who landed at Plymouth Massachusetts in 1680. From Scotland, not Ireland, no matter what the brothers argued. I'm sure she'd love to hear from you.

Nice to hear from you. I haven't had occasion to resurrect those memories in a long time.

Ralph McGonegal, Jr.

Child of JENNIE BARNES and FRED FALES is:

15. i. Frank D.⁹ Fales, b. 8-28-1888; d. 8-17-1971, Jackson, MI.

6. WILLIAM HOOD⁸ BARNES (*DAVID*⁷, *THOMAS*⁶, *AARON*⁵, *THOMAS*⁴, *THOMAS*³, *WILLIAM JAMES*², *THOMAS*¹) was born 5-27-1870 in Horton, Jackson Co., MI, and died 12-10-1946 in Jackson Co., MI. He married NELLIE MAE BLISS 11-29-1899 in Albion, Calhoun Co., MI, daughter of SIDNEY BLISS and HELEN HUBBARD. She was born 8-17-1874 in Albion, Calhoun Co., MI, and died 4-21-1962 in Jackson Co., MI.

Notes for WILLIAM HOOD BARNES:

William was employed as a signal man with the railroad and living in Chicago before he was married to Nellie Bliss. He returned to MI long enough for the marriage, after which the couple made the "windy city" their home. His daughter Jennie's ex-husband recalls his father-in-law telling how it was that he quit railroading. As the story goes, Will was returning from a job one day pumping a manual handcar along the tracks. Suddenly a train appeared heading toward him at full speed. Will had no choice but to jump for his life just moments before the handcar was pulverized. Will told Howard he walked away from the mess and never again returned to work for the railroad.

Will's next job in Chicago was entitled "civil engineer," and he was in charge of heating all buildings at Palmer Park, a recreation area with a wide assortment of amusement facilities, including an outside pavilion for concerts and the like, picnic areas, and buildings within which were a gymnasium, auditorium, and classrooms where people could learn things like working with clay and other artistic pursuits. In the meantime, his growing family lived in a house at 10943 Wabash Avenue, and Will invested some of his money in land. He also built a bungalow in Chicago as a rental.

Will Barnes was for many years a rim inspector for the Tire and Rim Association of America, in Jackson after the family moved to the area from Chicago in 1918. He loved to smoke cigars and seemed always to be puffing on one. He'd have several of his cronies over to play cards, and they'd sit around with their hats on and cigar smoke filling the house.

When Will and Nellie were living at 1114 E. Ganson Street in Jackson, Will took his automobile out one day on some errand. He had never liked to drive and had for many years gotten out of doing so by "letting" his eager children do the chore. But by now Charles, Helen, Tom, and Jennie had long ago gotten married and were off having families of their own. So on this particular wintry day he was on his own on the icy street. Not far from home he suddenly lost control—the car swerving and skidding until finally coming to a stop. He then turned the car around, slowly drove it to his garage, and sold it shortly thereafter. Will never drove again.

Barnes, William H.

Jackson Citizen Patriot newspaper Dec. 1946

Passed away at his home, 1114 E. Ganson St., at one o'clock Tuesday morning, aged 76 years. He is survived by his wife, Nellie; two sons, Thomas of Greencastle, IN and Charles of Jackson; two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Paige of Saginaw and Mrs. Helen Leggett of Horton; one brother, June of Horton; also 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. He was a member of Horton Lodge, F. & A. M. for 53 years. Mr. Barnes is at the Gildersleeve Memorial chapel where funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. The Masonic lodge will conduct services at the grave in the Horton cemetery where the interment will be made.

Will Barnes, the family's oral historian who late in life transcribed the essential information, worked for the railroad in Chicago and later was a civil engineer for the city's facilities at Palmer Park before returning to MI in 1918. Interred at Horton Cemetery, Horton, MI.

Notes for NELLIE MAE BLISS:

Nellie loved salt-rising toast. While her grandson Charlie Paige was little and his Grandma Nellie still owned the house on Ganson Street, she continued to let rooms. Charlie recalls vividly, even forty years after, the pungent odor of toasting salt-rising bread whenever he'd enter the house; a smell that was never absent.

Nellie was petite, standing only about five feet tall as compared to her husband Will's six-foot height. Her hobbies included crocheting, knitting, and sewing doll quilts for the little girls of the family.

Nellie was basically religious, a trait inherited from generations of devout Christian predecessors. For some years she attended the Horton Methodist Church, yet Will's dislike of attending church eventually turned her away from going, also, though she always kept the spark of her beliefs burning in her heart.

When Nellie was in the process of moving out of her house near the end of the 1950s, she gave to her grandson, Charlie Paige, a 900-page, oversize book entitled The Life of Jesus Christ for the Young, by Richard Newton, D.D., published at Philadelphia in 1880. The religious book was dedicated "to Christian Parents, Ministers, Teachers, and all who are Striving to Follow the Command of Our Blessed Lord to His Apostle Peter, 'Feed my Lambs'...." The book, which was probably given to Nellie by her parents and used as an in-home Sunday School class, contained passages from the Scriptures together with real-life anecdotal dramatizations of their meanings and how they related to the then (1880s) modern world. Along with the written text there were also twenty-one picture prints from steel engravings, twenty wood engravings printed as plates, and dozens more "engravings on wood printed with the text." Also included were newspaper articles Nellie had cut out, apparently feeling they were pertinent in some way. There was also a piece of paper with these words scribbled in palsied handwriting, "Must You Go," and a locket-size miniature of her mother, Helen (Hubbard) Bliss.

Nellie's obituary as appeared in the Jackson Citizen Patriot newspaper:

Rites Tuesday for Horton Resident, 87

Services for Mrs. Nellie M. Barnes, 87, of Horton, will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Greiner Funeral Home, Hanover, with the Rev. Robert Garrett, pastor of the Warren Ave. Baptist Church, Saginaw, officiating. Burial will be at Horton.

The widow of William H. Barnes, formerly of Jackson and Chicago, died Saturday.

She was a member of the Order of Eastern Star, Horton Chapter No. 135, attended the Horton Methodist Church and was active in the Horton WSCS. Her hobbies included making quilts for her grandchildren and crocheting, knitting and sewing doll quilts for the little girls in the family.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. William Kendrick of Holland, Mich.; four children, Mrs. Clifford (Helen) Leggett of Horton, Mrs. Howard (Jennie) Paige, and Thomas and Charles Barnes, all of Jackson; 16 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren.

Interred at Horton Cemetery, Horton, MI.

Marriage Notes for WILLIAM BARNES and NELLIE BLISS:

Will and Nellie were married in Albion by Rev. W. F. Kendrick, Nellie's brother-in-law. William was said to be a signal man from Chicago and Nellie was from Albion. Witnesses were Thomas Barnes of Horton and Hattie Pugsley of Albion. They immediately settled in Chicago, where they were renting an apartment at 4348 State Street in Ward 29, Lake Twp, Cook Co. at the time of the 1900 Federal census.

There were two other apartments being rented in their building. One apartment was let to the Max Lempke family. The husband was German and in the USA for 7 years, the wife was French and in the USA for 8 years, and the daughter had been born in Illinois the previous year. The other apartment was let to elderly German widow Lizzy Kass, who had lived in the USA for 45 years. She had a 25-year-old American boarder George Holt. A large Italian family, in the USA for 16 years, lived next door at 4346, and in the buildings with addresses counting up from 4350 were lots more Germans, Canadian English, and English.

By the 1910 Federal census of the 33rd Ward, Chicago, Cook Co., IL, part of tract A. G. 17, Will and Nellie had purchased a house, still under mortgage, at 10943 Wabash Avenue. In the household were: Wm H., Nellie M., Chas A., Helen M., Thos A., and Jennie L. of the Barnes clan. Also in the household were: Minnie Fournier, a 29-year-old single boarder, born in Michigan of Canadian French parents; and Frank A. Fellhauer, a married 35-year-old roomer, born in Michigan of Michigan-born parents. Both Will and Frank worked at a public park--Will as an engineer and Frank as a fireman. Minnie worked as a sales lady at a dry goods store.

Next door at 10495 lived the Stone family. 29-year-old William F. was born in Minnesota of Swedish parents. His 27-year-old wife Gertrude B. was Prussian-German of German parents. Gertrude had immigrated to the USA 7 years before, and the couple had been married 4 years. William owned a dental office, and the family was renting the house. They also had a roomer--Irvin H. Denne, a Michigan-born 21-year-old single yard clerk for a railroad office.

Next door at 10941 lived the Gaber family. Both 45-year-old Rudolph and his 35-year-old wife Marte were German, Rudolph having immigrated to the USA 5 years before and Marte 7 years. Their children were both born in Illinois. Rudolph worked as a painter at a car factory (would have been railroad cars).

While the family lived on Wabash Avenue, Will built another house they called "the bungalow," which was rented out for additional income.

World War I was in progress when the family liquidated its Chicago assets and relocated to Michigan in spring, 1918. The family moved to the house on Baldwin Street, in Horton, that Will had inherited from his parents. (This house would remain in the family from 1889 through 1970, although for much of that time it was rented out.)

The 1920 Federal census of Hanover Twp., Jackson Co., MI, shows the family renting a farm, with the three younger children attending school while Will and son Charles were employed as laborers in a factory. In later years, this would be called "the year of the farm."

During and after the Great Depression, Will and Nellie let fully-furnished rooms upstairs for an additional income. They also occasionally let downstairs. They would convert the dining room into a small apartment by closing the sliding wooden doors that separated the dining room from the living room. As mentioned earlier, they also rented out the house on Baldwin Street in Horton.

Will and Nellie owned the house at 1114 East Ganson Street, which was worth $7,000, at the time of the 1930 Federal census of the 8th Ward of Jackson, Jackson Co., MI. In the household were: William H. Barnes, 59 years old, an inspector at an auto parts factory; wife Nellie M., 54 years old; tenant family--Asa W. Bell, 37 years old, a building construction engineer; wife Ada M., 34 years old; and Wilma J., 5 years old. Will and Nellie had been married 30 years, while Asa and Ada had been married 12 years. The tenants were paying $28 per month, and the Barnes family owned a radio set.

The following article from the Jackson Citizen Patriot newspaper tells of the party held for Will and Nellie to celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary:

"Mr. and Mrs. Will Barnes of Jackson were honored on their 40th wedding anniversary with a dinner Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. [C]lyfford Leggett. The grandchildren furnished a musical program, being accompanied by Howard Paige with his accordion. A corsage of gardenias and a boutonniere were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and later gifts were received. The guests included Rev. and Mrs. Will Kendrick of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Susie Barnes, Albion; Mrs. Lilla Barnes, Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. George Buckman, Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paige and family of Saginaw; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes and family of Jackson."

[The "Lilla Barnes" mentioned in the above article was probably Lillian M. (Snyder), wife of William's brother Fredrick. C.W.P.]

1. MARTHA LOUISE⁷ BARNES (THOMAS⁶, AARON⁵, THOMAS⁴, THOMAS³, WILLIAM JAMES², THOMAS¹) was born 2-3-1833 in NY, and died 3-22-1876 in Jackson, MI. She married HORACE FIELD 7-1-1848 in Jackson, MI, son of THOMAS FIELD and CHARITY MCCAIN. He was born 4-1-1829, and died 12-22-1904.

Notes for HORACE FIELD:

* Horace Field, retired, was born in Le Roy, Genesee Co., N.Y. In 1833, when three years old, his parents emigrated to this county. His father, Thomas Field, was a native of MA, born March 18, 1785, and a carpenter by trade, which he followed a number of years after coming to this county. He purchased some wild land and made a farm where his two sons, William and Horace, were employed in the summer, attending school in the winter. At that time there were no modern school-houses; they consisted of log cabins of the plainest kind. He died March 18, 1872, at the age of 89 years. Mr. Field's mother, Charity McCain, a native of NY, was born July 11, 1798, and died July 4, 1877, at the age of 79 years; when they came to Jackson the country was a vast wilderness; came by team, and from Detroit had to follow Indian trails, of which the country was full; there were also plenty of wolves, deer and bear. Mr. Field came to this county in limited circumstances, with a large family, and it was the time that tried men's souls; many were the times when he went to bed hungry; and several winters had been without shoes. The subject of this sketch married for his first wife Martha L. Barnes, a daughter of Thomas Barnes, who was born Feb. 3, 1833, and died March 22, 1876; for his second wife he married Louisa L. Chamberlain, daughter of Philetus Chamberlain, of Wayne County, N.Y., Aug. 9, 1842.

The day that Robert and Ann were married, Robert boarded a ship for America, where he bought some of the land received by his brother-in-law William Smith from the government as a land grant. Descendants of Sevira Ellen Barnes

Generation No. 1

1. SEVIRA ELLEN⁷ BARNES (*THOMAS*⁶, *AARON*⁵, *THOMAS*⁴, *THOMAS*³, *WILLIAM JAMES*², *THOMAS*¹) was born 9-12-1835 in NY, and died 2-1-1870 in Jackson, MI. She married PHILO ANDREW BONHAM 11-25-1858 in Jackson, MI. He was born 10-5-1837, and died 8-9-1864 in Jackson Co., MI.

Notes for SEVIRA ELLEN BARNES:

Some question has arisen concerning the exact spelling of Sevira Barnes' name. References this writer found at the Jackson City Library spelled it "Levira," the 1850 Federal census had it "Savira," in her own handwriting she spelled it "Sevira," and on her tombstone it is spelled "Sephira."

Sevira is buried at Draper Cemetery, Jackson County, MI, under the name "Sephira."

[Above information gleaned from Brøderbund World Family Tree CD Vol. 13, Ed. 1, Tree #1853]

Philo was buried at Draper Cemetery, Jackson County, Michigan.

Marriage Notes for SEVIRA BARNES and PHILO BONHAM:

By the Name of Bonham:

There was once a lady by the name of Dora Buck - remembered as having white hair and being rather short. A woman who seemed full of life and energies. She was known to be a cousin, although, as sometimes happens, her 'cousins' did not know or put much thought into how she was related. Possibly even her children and grandchildren were hazy about the relationship. Dora is gone, now -the last of our family to hare gone by the name of Bonham. This writer hopes to shed light on her story.

On 25 November, 1858, marriage vows were spoken by Philo Andrew Bonham and his intended, Sevira Ellen Barns. Officiating was the Reverend Silas Pomeroy, and witnessing were Sevira's brother, Aaron, and twin sister, Sophronia Ellen.

In 1859, Sevira and Philo ushered their first child, Clara Sophronia, into the world. Her visit was short and she died in 1860. On June 27, 1861, Dora Belle was born. Then, on 13 March, * 1862, Philo entered active duty in the Third Cavalry of MI at New Madrid, Montana. Be was prevent at the siege of Island No. 10, and subsequently aided in carrying through the Mississippi Campaign. This Campaign completed its 25th engagement at Jack's Creek, Mississippi on 24 December, 1863. The regiment continued in the service of the States until March 15, 1866, when it was disbanded at Jackson. Mi.

It is possible that Philo was released from active duty after the completion of the Campaign. A son, Andrew Philo, had been born in November of that same year (1865), and on 25 February, 1864, Philo bought land from Nathaniel P. Drake and wife for $900  in Jackson, County. Had he lived, many things might have been different. The family might have prospered and been large. Its history might have been typical and relatively uneventful. He and Sevira might have grown old together, to play with their numerous grand and great-grand children. The Bonham name might have been remembered and passed on to other generations.

Philo died around August of 1864, leaving behind his wife with two infant children. It is not known how the remaining family survived the next six years. Possibly they moved in with Sevira's parents, Thomas and Sarah Barnes, for a time. After Thomas died in 1866, Sarah also took up a nomadic status, moving from family to family.

Sevira Ellen died in 1870, leaving Dora and Andrew to be raised by their guardian and uncle, Horace Field, and his wife Martha Guise (Barns). In 1876, Martha also died. The traditional story has it that Dora and Andrew were separated and sent to different relative's homes.

Generation No. 2

2. DORA BELLE⁸ BONHAM (SEVIRA ELLEN⁷ BARNES, THOMAS⁶, AARON⁵, THOMAS⁴, THOMAS³, WILLIAM JAMES², THOMAS¹) was born 6-27-1861, and died 11-26-1946. She married (1) WILLIS R. BUTLER 4-25-1878 in Rives, Jackson Co., MI, son of MARTIN BUTLER and MARY BUTLER. He was born 11-9-1859 in Wood, OH, and died 8-15-1928 in Los Angeles, CA. She married (2) BENJAMIN M. RANDALL 11-11-1890, son of MILES RANDALL and HARRIETT BURNS. He was born 5-8-1855. She married (3) FRED BUCK Aft. 1902, son of JOHN BUCK. He was born 8-30-1875, and died 8-24-1940.

Notes for DORA BELLE BONHAM:

It would appear from Dora Belle's history that she had a tremendous desire for the company of children; possibly to offset the loneliness she felt as a child from being without her own parents. In addition to raising her own nine children, born over a period between 1879 and 1902, she also raised one grandchild and one great-grandchild. In 1907, after her first-born daughter, Bertha Ausmacher, died 2 days after having her own daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, she took the grandchild in to raise. Then in 1924, at age 63 years, Dora Belle took her great-grandson, Robert Macomber, in to raise after his parents Dorothy Elizabeth and Milton Macomber were divorced.

Many of Dora's years were spent running a boarding house on Beldon Road in Jackson. Around 1922 she and Fred Buck purchased a twelve-acre farm at 330 Blackman Road in Woodville, MI, where she lived until 1942. After 1942 her final years were spent between her son Charles James Randall's home near Los Angeles, CA, and her daughter Lillian Striker's home in Jackson, MI.

* Note: In the marriage registration book at the Jackson County building there is an incomplete registration for Dora (Bonham) Butler and Marvin E. Dunmore on December 18, 1889. The marriage did not take place as Marvin was taken sick that very day and died on December 23rd.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT - much of the above information was submitted by Robert Guy Macomber of El Cajon, CA.

Dora is buried at Draper Cemetery, Jackson County, MI, under last name of "Buck."
